

CADSOFT® CORPORATION NAMED A CONSTRUCTECH HOTTEST 50 COMPANY

GUELPH, Ontario, Canada, July 14, 2009 – Cadsoft® Corporation, the leading developer of Building Information Modeling (BIM) design software for the professional residential and light commercial design market, has been named one of Constructech's 50 Hottest for 2009.

Constructech 50 Hottest for 2009 is Constructech magazine's listing of the most influential construction technology providers with a strong and ongoing market presence as determined by the publication's editorial staff and advisory board.

"We're very excited to be a part of this exclusive listing," said Brad Finck, Vice President, Cadsoft Corporation. "We are continuously striving to provide the construction industry with a better and more innovative Building Information Modeling platform that will streamline building design workflow, increase productivity and improve job quality."

Of the 200 companies considered for the award, the selected winners demonstrated a continued and dominant presence within the marketplace with a strong construction oriented product/service, customer satisfaction and growth, as well as outreach and educational efforts for the construction industry.

"It's wonderful to see several of our integration partners celebrating the receipt of the award this year as well," adds Finck. "It reinforces that we have selected the best partners in the industry to help us meet our goal in providing the industry's best and most comprehensive BIM solution available today."
