Software developer recognized as a national Developers level donor of Habitat for Humanity Canada

GUELPH, Ontario, Canada, January 27, 2009 – Cadsoft Corporation, the leading developer of Building Information Modeling (BIM) design software for the professional residential design market, today announced that it has committed to a donation towards the Habitat for Humanity Gift In Kind Program. As a part of its donation, Cadsoft Corporation will provide the 72 Habitat for Humanity affiliates in Canada with a special discounted rate on its industry leading residential BIM software, Envisioneer™.

“Cadsoft is extremely pleased and proud to offer this donation to Habitat for Humanity Canada and its affiliates,” comments Brad Finck, Vice President of Cadsoft Corporation. “We’re excited at the prospect of being a significant part of delivering home ownership dreams to Canadians every year that are truly deserving.”

Affiliates introducing Envisioneer into their Habitat for Humanity home building process benefit from a number of the software’s capabilities. Recipient homes can be designed quickly and easily using integrated building design wizards. Envisioneer’s automatic creation of 3D presentations, renderings and virtual tours enable Habitat for Humanity recipients to see a virtual tour of their home before construction begins. In addition, affiliates benefit from increased productivity with Envisioneer’s instant production of complete working drawings and generation of full bills of materials and project estimates to eliminate excess and waste for every Habitat for Humanity home built.
