FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Cadsoft Corporation and Luxwood Corporation form strategic alliance to deliver integrated joint solutions to the Lumber and Builder Material (LBM) industry.

Guelph, ON, May 11, 2010 – Cadsoft Corporation, the leading developer of Building Information Modeling (BIM) software for the residential and light commercial construction industry, is proud to announce their strategic technology alliance with Luxwood to deliver joint productivity solutions to the Lumber and Building Material (LMB) supplier industry.

Luxwood Corporation offer 3D design and estimating tools that are geared towards project sales relating to deck design, post frame structures, garage, fence, quotation and point of sale integration. Cadsoft's Envisioneer software platform is focussed on the 3D design and material takeoff of the entire home and landscape, in addition to detailed framing and construction documentation.

By forming this key technology alliance, Cadsoft and Luxwood can now capitalize on the combined strengths of both organizations and instantly deliver a broader solution to the LBM dealer and their customers, which includes designers, builders and remodelers. Envisioneer's 3D model generates a complete bill of materials which now integrates seamlessly with the Luxwood Quote Generator for calculating completely customized quotations and integration with key point of sale systems.

The two companies are also working on a module that will allow Cadsoft's Envisioneer Building Information Model to communicate directly with Luxwood's Design Tools suite of products.

"This alliance significantly enforces Cadsoft's position as a leading technology provider to the Lumber and Building Material supply industry" says Brad Finck, VP Business Development. "With Luxwood joining our growing family of development partners, we have increased our communication process to encompass the complete range of design, estimating, engineering and project sales systems in the industry.

"We are excited to have formed this relationship with Cadsoft Corporation" notes Terry Davies, President and CEO of Luxwood Corporation. "By integrating our product line of Project Sales titles with the Envisioneer whole home design and estimating system, we have not only strengthened our position in the LBM space but also are able to offer a wider range of products and services to our customers."

Key versions of Envisioneer now include the Luxwood Quote Generator base module. The Luxwood Quote Generator Pro module is also available for immediate purchase as an add-on to Envisioneer as both a stand-alone and network option. Future integration modules will be introduced between Cadsoft Envisioneer and key Luxwood design products in the near future.
