Cadsoft Corporation launches Training Webinar Program for Envisioneer

GUELPH, Ontario, Canada, April 7, 2008 – Cadsoft Corporation, the leading developer of BIM design software for the professional residential design market is proud to announce the release of the Envisioneer Training Webinar Program.

These Webinars are live training sessions offered weekly over the Web. Lead by expert instructors, these content-rich workshops provide loads of insightful tips and valuable information. Clients will be able to see the instructor's screen and hear them speaking, as if they were right there with you in your office!

Chantale Pitts, Director of Customer Service states "Cadsoft has introduced the Webinar program to rapidly increase the high level of knowledge of the Envisioneer client base." We have proven that highly productive Clients are the best testament to the power that Envisioneer has brought to the AEC design industry."

Brad Finck, VP Business Development adds "coming from a traditional CAD background, I am constantly amazed at how fast our Customer Base becomes proficient with Envisioneer. By adding the Training Webinars to our services in addition to classroom and custom training, we are now offering the most flexible learning options of any design software today."

Webinars are FREE for Cadsoft Customer Care clients in good standing. They must pre-register to receive the login details and can take the courses as many times as they wish.
